TBAT: Write a narrative.

Stanley was glad to get away from Zig-Zag and King - they were being so annoying! Besides Zoo and Stanley did have a deal so it wasn't rude or anything. Right? As Zoo was getting his lunch Zig-Zag approached Stanley.

"If you let me dig your hole, I will give you my cookie." said Zig-Zag miserably.

"No... I'm fine..." replied Stanley.

"Force my cookie!"
"No, get it away from me!"
Stanley started to come away.

"Don't push me!" Zig-zog angrily said.

"I said, DONT PUSH ME!"

Then Mr Pendraken and Zoo came over towards them.

"We were just playing, mom." explained

The children have been thoroughly captivated reading 'Holes' by Louis Sachar. This has inspired us to write some brilliant letters home from the perspective of Stanley. We have also written recounts from the story from parts that have appealed to us the most.

TBAT: Write a narrative

Stanley slipped out of the truck and into the hot blazing sun and walked to the wooden cabin with Mr. Zerk. Stanley was walking to the cabin but then Stanley looked around he saw no sign of nature and then turned to Zerk.

"Mr. Zerk are there any holes in said diagonal shapes and sizes" asked Stanley.

"That's one of your duties." replied Mr. Zerk.

Stanley walked away with Stanley as he tried to find a good hole.

When they got to the wooden cabin...

Mr. Zerk and Stanley knocked on the wooden cabin and then she opened the door.

"Hello there Mr. Zerk" created the words.

"Can we come in? We used to talk" Asked Mr. Zerk.

"I guess" answered the words in confusion.

"This will not reach the cabin."

"So why are you here?" the words questioned.

"Because Stanley here has stolen my sack of dog food" said Stanley.

"That's right from my truck" Stanley said.

"Did you Stanley" asked the words.

"Yes, words" said Stanley nervously.

"Yes" Stanley said Mr. Zerk once again.

"That's the words" So you come here for dog food sacks that we have left behind

"Come with me, Stanley, before you something said the words."

When Stanley thought as he followed to the words to a different room. The movements later they came out of the room and the words were holding a bottle of red polish.

MATHS

Celebrating Year 6's learning

This term, the children have focused on fractions. We have looked at how you add, subtract, multiply and divide them. Let's see what the children have done!

WORLD WAR 1

Throughout term 2, we have been continuing our learning about World War One. We have focussed on the roles of others during the war, including woman and animals. We have seen the impact remembrance has had over the world and how different countries remember those who fought bravely, but unfortunately lost their lives.

Science

We have enjoyed two Science days this term and this has been based around 'Earth and Space'. We have looked at our fascinating solar system and come up with some amazing information about this. Take a look at some of our work!!
